the first week to a month: Choose one of these handy layouts, from three different styles. Black Notes songs all on the black keys using only fingers 2, 3, & 4. Some old, some new, & all easy for beginner's hand posture. Starting on C position, and moving up to the next all-white keys position. These scales are the most important beginning technique my students learn. With note names inside the note heads, and finger numbers with the first set, students catch on quickly! Scales for left hand, too. Wormies - just printable notes! Not yet true note-reading, but following UP or DOWN. This little exercise is just looking at the musical staff as a "ladder". One slow note at a time, the notes on the staff. The easy sheets and songs above are what I send home with my students at lessons 1 - 4. Some, like the scales & simple chords pictured above, greatly improve students' recall of what we have gone over at lessons, because they are VISUAL. They also help parents, who may not be musicians. Others, such as the paper keyboard, become a permanent reference, as we add a new key every week until even the black keys' names are memorized. Additional beginner sheets & music Crickets Go Hopping...is really just a re-named version of "Snakes Go for a Walk."You will find both those sheets at this page. Every situation is unique... some kids will happily play week after week from their piano method books, enjoying each turn of the page with its new challenge, while others find the books boring and dig in their heels as you attempt to drag them through their lesson book. Some beginners move along quickly, while others need months to digest the small handful of notes around Middle C. Some kids have heard classical piano music from the time they were born; with others, all they know is video game music. So how do you choose instructional materials for them? So how do you choose beginner piano music? Well, all kids love to play what is familiar to them. You will have to stretch them, expanding their tastes, but you must still satisfy their desire to play what is familiar to them. You will have to stretch them, expanding their tastes, but you must still satisfy their desire to play what is familiar to them. students. Never will I forget an account by the late John Holt (writer and early home-schooling advocate, and lover-if-not-master of the cello) in his book, Never Too Late: My Musical Life Story, about meeting another adult cello student. Give them more than just SCALES... Like him, she was a beginner, and they were comparing notes (no pun intended). Holt was thoroughly enjoying himself with the growing number of real cello pieces he could play, even though he knew his abilities were modest. But the poor woman cellist was confined to scales by her teacher, week after week. At the end of each lesson this man would say something like, "I think you're almost ready for a real piece... but no, we'd better continue with the scales." Yikes! Can you imagine? I don't think too many of us would do that to our students, but the story is a useful reminder that LOVE, a sense of wonder, and excitement are what draw children to music, and we teachers must not forget that. Yes, they need the basic foundation. And more... Scales? Yes. Exercises? Yes. Note-reading? Of course. But with beginner piano music, always at least one FUN piece, a piece that gives the child something to look forward to at practice time. Keep looking until it is perfect. So where do you find that perfect piece? It's so easy to make a wrong choice for a picky student! And there's the nagging little voice in the back of your mind reminding you that copying is definitely not legal... But sheet music, beginner piano music! Queen Esther in the BibleThis beautiful song book for piano & voice "Esther, For Such a Time as This", available as a digital download, tells the riveting story of the time when Jews in ancient Persia faced a foe named Haman, and how a brave young queen risked her life to save her people. A good choice for a singing story-teller, an operatic group, a short theater production, or a class of children! This book is also available from Amazon as a paperback. Just the Black KeysThis book is available from this site. Visit this page to see some free examples from the book. It is also available from the staff, this is a fun easy resource to say each week, "Choose a new black-key song at home this week and figure it out to show me next lesson!" They will be spending more time at the piano. The Adventures of Tonsta highlight the travels of a very young boy with a good heart, who goes about helping folk in trouble. With a red cap on his head and a sack of tools slung over his shoulder, Tonsta seems to meet people in distress wherever he goes. Lots of trolls in this book - including one who gives him a Christmas gift! Available at Amazon Kay, US:...wanted to let you know that I love using your early beginner sheet music with the alphanotes. I have 10 beginners who began piano this fall, and your materials are great, especially the Christmas pieces, to bridge that time of just starting to read a few notes and being able to play more complicated rhythms. Your site has helped my studio a great deal. Thank you for sharing!!!! Merry Christmas! Miggy, United Kingdom:I've just found your website and I think I've died and gone to heaven. I've just taken up the piano again after 35 years absence... buying sheet music was getting expensive/a luxury. The tips are great too. I also live in the middle of nowhere so buying from a shop is not really an option unless I fancy a 120 mile round trip for a piece of sheet music! April:Thank you so much for all the information and materials! Your site is very thorough and well organized! I am a piano teacher in New Orleans, LA and in the process of putting together my own curriculum and recordings. You have inspired me to make my materials available to all online! Kristen:Hi Dana, I just wanted to send you a short note and say thank you for the AMAZING resources. I've been teaching piano for about 10 years, and I wish I would have come across your website sooner. I've especially been using your songs for my young beginners who are entering 1st grade.
